

Be Breast Aware
The facts and fiction of breast awareness on Thursday 15 October 6.30 pm for 7.00 pm
at City Inn, Brindleyplace, Birmingham

It's fascinating how the human mind is capable of coming up with a myriad of names for the human mammary glands (everything from airbags to ying-yangs). Seriously, just how much do you know about your breasts? Are your boobs getting too much of a workout? Although breast awareness is a serious subject, we're confident you will find something to 'titter' about during this very informative networking event.

Breast Awareness month raises the profile of the importance of being breast aware. Zoë Vegnuti, Breast Services Manager, of University Hospital Birmingham and Karen Tomalin, Director of 2nd Skin Lingerie will share their knowledge and expertise on everything breast related from screening to getting the right bras for you.

Zoë has been building up her breast awareness for over 20 years and will tell you everything you ever wanted to know about breast screening, rapid access/one-stop clinics and general breast awareness.

Karen, a former accountant, will share some "Tales from the Fitting Room" and tell us about the importance of getting the right bras for your image and your confidence. She will also be bringing along some of her lingerie and passing on information about the Bra Chain.

DON'T BURN YOUR BRAS! – ladies, if you're looking for an excuse for some new lingerie, simply de-clutter and sort out those old bras now and help others in the process. Please bring your old bras along to this event and pop them into the Bra Recycling Bin
