

Backstage Tour and Film at The UK's Oldest Working Cinema

Tuesday 23rd January 2018 at The Electric Cinema, Station Street, Birmingham
5.00 for 5.30pm for the talk and tour
6.30pm for the film

Join WiBA members for a fascinating evening, starting with a welcoming drink from the bar, then hearing about the history of this iconic cinema, taking a tour, and finally watching a brand new release from one of the comfortable sofas.

WiBA invites you to join members and guests at our first event for 2018.

We will be treated to a welcoming drink from the bar with plenty of opportunities for networking. There will then be a talk about the cinema and a tour before enjoying one of the latest new releases from the comfort of the sofas. There will be the opportunity to purchase snacks and further refreshments during the performance, as there is waiter service.

The Electric Cinema opened in Station Street in 1909, showing its first silent film on 27 December of that year, and is now the oldest working cinema in the country. Over the following years it has experienced a number of changes both in name and purpose (some less respectable than others!), and was refurbished and brought back to its former Art Deco glory in December 2004.

Sam Bishop, Operations Manager and our host for the evening, will tell us more about its history, and reveal some of the cinema's secrets.

If you're new to Birmingham you can find more information online at www.TheElectric.co.uk

This event costs £16.00 for members and £19.00 for guests.

NB if you would like to attend at Members' rates, please ensure you have joined or renewed your membership.
